

MOBS TORE BODIES OF JEWS TO PIECES

Soldiers Stood Idly by While Massacre Was in Progress--Mad Orgy of Murder and Pillage.

(Associated Press.)

Grodno, Russia, June 20.—Owing to the refusal of the censor at Bialystok to permit the free telegraphing of the result of investigation of the massacre of Jews there, the correspondent of the Associated Press came here. The anti-Jewish rioting at Bialystok is now ended. The troops are in full control, and in view of the outcry raised it is certain that the authorities will not permit a renewal of the horrors which had already turned.

This entire region is greatly excited owing to fear that . . .

was only the signal for a general attack on the Jews throughout the pale and in Poland, but if any such conspiracy existed it is too late to carry out the plans as the most imperative orders to prevent further outbreaks have been issued to the governors and governor-generals from St. Petersburg.

When the correspondent arrived at Bialystok on Sunday morning the worst was already over, but on all sides there was revolting evidence of

on the part of the blood-drunk mobs who sacked and burned the Jewish houses, shops and stores.

For seventy-two hours with a slight abatement during the day time the mad orgy of blood and pillage went on unchecked. The inhumanity displayed would have done credit to the Mongol hordes of Genghis Khan in his conquests of China and Central Asia early in the 13th century.

At first police and troops urged on the mob, but finally when dismayed by the bloody deeds accomplished, they reluctantly sought to obey the orders of their superiors to put an end to the work of the

who were so far beyond control of the local forces that regiment after regiment had to be thrown into the city before order could be restored.

During the rioting the Jews were hunted down by furious pursuers who in the majority of cases were not content with killing more victims, but tore them to pieces like wild animals and while this was in progress the troops either stood idly or as was more frequent case, fired into the houses and shops where Jews were concealed, under the pretext that they believed them to be revolutionists, but really in order to make way for the who followed in the soldiers' wake.

While it is impossible to give exact figures the visits of the correspondents to the hospitals and cemeteries enable him to approximate the killed at one hundred Jews and twenty Christians and the wounded at 150 and 7 Christians.

The question of the origin of the massacre was carefully investigated. Although many of the Jews denied that a bomb was thrown at the orthodox procession on Thursday, in honor of Corpus Christi Day, that a bomb

FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVES BEGIN TO ARRIVE

Fog Delays British Royal Yacht Having on Board the Prince and Princess of Wales.

(Associated Press.)

Trondhjem, Norway, June 20.—The French armored cruiser Admiral Aube, carrying the special French embassy to the coronation of King Haakon, arrived here about 10 a.m. this morning. Immediately after she reached her anchorage she fired a salute, to which the Norwegian men-of-war and shore batteries replied.

A sparkling breeze swept the harbor, causing the flags and bunting to flutter in a lively fashion, and raising a sea in which the launches and cutters were tossed about like corks. But, in spite of the breeze, a dense fog prevailed near the entrance of the fjord, and delayed the arrival of the other warships and steamers including the British royal yacht Victoria and Albert, having on board the Prince and Princess of Wales and convoyed by the second-class cruisers Juno and Talbot.

The vessels are anchored outside the fjord, but will not arrive at Trondhjem until the afternoon.

The members of the French embassy landed at 11 o'clock this morning. They were received by officers of the royal household, were given a guard of honor and were driven to the palace, where King Haakon received the embassy and thanked them and their nation for their presence here on the occasion of his coronation.

The leading members of the Norwegian cabinet, headed by Premier Michelsen, will leave Christiania today for Trondhjem.

Trondhjem continues to fill with visitors and crowds throng the streets. The palace and cathedral are the centers of interest.

Western Organization Will Probably Support the Souris Team.

(Associated Press.)

Winnipeg, June 19.—The decision of Souris to ignore C. A. U. in playing the Shamrocks for the Minto cup will likely have the effect of consolidating all influence of the union in western sports. Souris has practically the silent, if not active support of various sporting organizations in their position.

PROFESSORS RESIGN

Five Members of Faculty of Chicago University Accept Other Positions.

(Associated Press.)

Chicago, June 20.—Five members of the faculty of the University of Chicago resigned yesterday, and all the resignations were accepted. They are Thorstein V. Veblen, assistant of political economy; Dr. Oliver B. Thatcher, associate professor of history; Dr. C. C. Guthrie and Alexis Carroll, of the physiology department, and Chas. A. Huston, instructor in English.

Commenting on the resignations, Chas. L. Hutchinson, treasurer of the board of trustees said: "When other universities offer larger salaries we cannot expect to keep our men. We have always been hard up, as proved by our annual deficit. When the professors develop their powers and the chief chairs here are full, they go."

Prof. Veblen and Mr. Huston will go to Leeland Stanford, Jr., University; Dr. Carroll will join the Rockefeller Institute of infectious diseases in New York; Dr. Guthrie will go to St. Louis University, and Dr. Thatcher to Europe.

MAIL CLERK ARRESTED.

Abductor Gets Twenty Years With Hard Labor.

Philadelphia, June 19.—Twenty years of solitary confinement with hard labor was the sentence pronounced to-day on John Joseph Kean, who abducted little Freddie Muth from school last Tuesday afternoon. The enormity of the man's crime, which has aroused the whole city, stirred the officers of the law to quick action.

Keen was arrested yesterday at about the time the courts were closing. Promptly at 10 o'clock this morning he was photographed and measured by the Bertillon method. Twenty-five minutes later he had been arraigned before a magistrate and committed to court without bail. The grand jury quickly found a true bill, and at 11:30 a.m. he was in the criminal court awaiting his turn to face Judge Sulzberger. Shortly after 12 o'clock the judge passed sentence upon him, and at 12:30 the great iron doors of the penitentiary closed behind him. In his quick trip from liberty to the solitude of Terry Hill no friendly hand or voice was raised in the prisoner's behalf. If he behaves himself his sentence under the law will be reduced to 12 years and 3 months. The court had the power to give him a life sentence.

Much sympathy is expressed for the wife and three children Kean leaves without means of support.

FIGHT WITH REBELS.

Made Several Determined Charges on Natal Force, but Were Repulsed.

Mafaguaro, Natal, June 19.—Rebels yesterday attacked a convoy of five wagons, but the convoy got away, though pursued for two miles. A force of 60 men which was sent out from Mafaguaro to protect the wagons encountered 70 rebels who were arranging an ambush. An engagement ensued lasting an hour and a half, during which the rebels three determinedly charged the Natal force. The rebels ultimately fled, leaving one of their number dead.

SHARP EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Bellingham, June 19.—Dispatches received here from Sedro-Woolley; Wickensham and Lookout tell of sharp earthquake shocks felt there last night at 11:30 o'clock. The people were awakened from sleep by a trembling of the earth, but no damage was done. The supposition is that the vibrations were due to a landslide in the Mount Baker district.

RHEUMATISM

Do you know the system rids itself of waste matter through bowels and kidneys? Yes, but by the skin as well.

As a matter of fact, the skin rids the system of more urea than the kidneys do.

If the skin, or bowels, or kidneys are underweight, they do not throw off enough urea. This urea is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to joints and terries—causing Rheumatism.

One never inherits Rheumatism. One does inherit weak kidneys, irregular bowels and bad skin action.

Fruit-a-tives
OR FRUIT LIVER TABLETS

will positively cure Rheumatism because they increase the eliminating action of skin, kidneys and bowels—and make these three organs so vigorous and healthy that there can be no urea or waste retained in the system to poison the blood and irritate the nerves.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices, combined with tonics—the whole forming the most effective cure for Rheumatism.

NORWAY'S RULER.

King Haakon and Queen Maud Have Arrived in Ancient Capital.

Tromsø, June 19.—King Haakon VII., his Queen and their son rest to-night in the ancient capital of Haakon the Good, where Norway first was created a nation.

They came this evening in the gunboat Heimdal amid scenes of picturinessness.

The elaborate preparations for their reception had been completed before crowds began to congregate along the route of the procession from the pier to the palace, and on the breakwater and buoys marking the entrance.

The expectation had made the ordinary grave Norwegian Parisian in their gaiety. They waited in the noon-day sun that streams down on Trondhjem. On the pier was built a pavilion in the old Norse form, decorated with grometry and the nation's colors. Around the pavilion were gathered members of the diplomatic corps from Christiania, officers of the army and municipal officers. The guns of the Danish warship Hekla booming—the royal salute announced that the King's yacht was approaching. The crowds waited silently until the Heimdal entered her slip; when they broke into the short, sharp hurrahs that express Norwegian enthusiasm.

The first figure discernible on the deck was the wonderful little Crown Prince Olaf, in a white sailor suit, held high above the rail by his nurse, and showing a precious interest in the scene.

The King soon joined the Prince and the crowd barked out another cheer, which was renewed when Queen Maud appeared.

The royal family speedily landed, and the King conversed briefly with several of the dignitaries. The municipality presented an address of welcome for which King Haakon expressed his thanks. Then the King, Crown Prince Olaf in his arms, accompanied by Queen Maud, entered a carriage, and, escorted by cavalry, drove to the palace through cheering crowds. Tiarons surrounded the palace for hours cheering the King and Queen.

Although Norway is regarded as safely outside the bomb belt of Europe and a country free from violent political animosity, the Norwegian party are taking precautions to protect the King and other royal persons.

The King's family speedily landed, and the King conversed briefly with several of the dignitaries. The municipality presented an address of welcome for which King Haakon expressed his thanks. Then the King, Crown Prince Olaf in his arms, accompanied by Queen Maud, entered a carriage, and, escorted by cavalry, drove to the palace through cheering crowds. Tiarons surrounded the palace for hours cheering the King and Queen.

CONCERT WAS WELL ATTENDED

MISS O. DAHL AGAIN CHARMED HER BEARERS

Arion Club and Riedelsberger Quartette
Provided Excellent Numbers to Last Night's Programme.

The Victoria Theatre was filled last evening for the high class musical entertainment given under the management of C. H. Gibbons. The programme was an artistic one, bringing together in one concert Miss Olivia Dahl, the Norwegian soloist; the Karl Riedelsberger quartette and the Arion Club of Victoria.

Miss Dahl, as on her last visit to Victoria, was given a very hearty reception. Her selections were well chosen, and an opportunity was afforded her-hears of studying the songs of which this talented singer is capable. In no particular was she disappointing. Possessing a rich voice Miss Dahl shows in addition the results of careful training for her work.

She was repeatedly encored last evening responding in a number of instances.

The Riedelsberger quartette also pleased the patrons of the Arion Club, and Dominion groups of properties on the north side of the city. Some twenty odd claims are included in the bond, making over 700 acres of mineralized territory. The deal was made with G. B. Dennis, of Spokane, on behalf of himself and a strong syndicate of New York capitalists who have been carefully noting the successful mining operations in this camp for some time past. Development work is to be started as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made. Mr. Dennis informs Mr. Martin that as soon as the development shall justify it, the purchasers will secure a suitable site for a smelter of large capacity, the plans and financial standing of the backers of the enterprise providing for this whenever it shall have been determined that the ore available will warrant such a step.

May Output.

Boundary's tonnage output for the month of May continued to run over the 100,000 ton mark, notwithstanding the fact that repairs and enlargements to a number of the Granby furnaces were still under way. These changes will be completed in the near future when the increased output by the Granby Consolidated will largely make up in the total monthly Boundary output for the shortage now being occasioned by the entire stoppage of smelting operations at the reduction works there.

The programme opened and closed with numbers contributed by this vocal club which has done so much in the city to foster a love of high-class chorus singing. The appearance last evening closes the season's concerts as far as the club is concerned.

The accompanists last evening were Miss Gina Smith, who tours with Miss Dahl; Miss Miles, G. J. Burnett and Edward Birrell.

The piano used last evening was one provided by M. W. Watt & Co., manufactured by the celebrated Canadian firm of Heintzman & Co.

C. H. Gibbons, under whose management the concert was given last evening, makes the announcement that during the season of 1905-6 he will present to the music-loving public of the Northwest Pacific cities: M. Eugene Ysaye, Violinist; Mme. Lillian Nordica, soprano; M. Hekking, cellist; Mme. Charlotte Macanda, soprano; and also, witness-examined, was George Scott, Archibald's peerless man who was with him at the time of his death.

Scott said that he and Archibald were hand-loggers, and on June 15th they were working at three logs which they had split down to the beach over a bluff the day before. They had got two of them safely into the water, but the third was a large cedar, which they had to cut before they could move it. They were undercutting the tree and worked at it in spells. While Archibald was at it in his turn, he broke and came away suddenly. The friend end came down upon him, knocking him into the water and pinning him by the breast against another log in the boom there. He was head and shoulders only above the water, and Scott got out in a boat and freed his wounded comrade lifted him in. He was not unconscious at the time, but fainted directly afterwards. Scott sprinkled water on him to revive him, and rowed away as fast as he could to one of the Emerson camps not far away, but about 25 minutes after he started, Archibald, who had been lying gasping for breath in the bottom of the boat, rolled over on his face and after a short struggle expired.

The jury without retiring found a verdict of accidental death.

Archibald was a man about 35 years of age, and came here from Musquodobit county, Nova Scotia, where his parents still reside.

SARCITY OF LABOR.

Progress of Construction on V. V. & E. Delayed by Lack of Men.

Increasing activity in the V. V. & E. yard has marked the past week, says a Midway dispatch. The numerous parts of the tracklaying machine, which have been lying on flat cars, have been unloaded and strung out along the track at the western limit of the yard ready for assembling. Some 20 men of the steel gang have arrived, and they are engaged in making final preparations for tracklaying, which will be commenced about the 20th.

The shortage of men to work on the western sections of the grade is becoming serious. With an abundance of work everywhere, men are rather independent just at present, and this adds greatly to the troubles of the contractors.

The Pay Roll.

At the various mines and smelters of the Boundary district about $150,000 was paid out last week for wages earned by nearly 1,500 men during the month of May. The Granby and Dominion Copper companies' wage roll in Phoenix camp alone was about $60,000. The balance being scattered between Greenwood and Grand Forks and other points. The pay roll of smelter employees at the three district smelters, is estimated at between $50,000 and $60,000. It is likely that in the future the total paid each month will be even larger than in May, as forces are being gradually increased to some extent at all the properties, while at the B. C. Copper Company's Mother Lode mine, the number regularly employed will be about doubled, in preparing for the increased smelter of the company is ready for operation, some two or three months hence. Detailed, the pay roll for May for the mines and smelters of the Boundary was approximately as follows: Granby Consolidated, $72,000; B. C. Copper Company, $30,000; Dominion Copper Company, $35,000; smaller mines, $15,000; total, $150,000.

Hamilton, June 15.—Investigation into the conspiracy charge against the officers of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild was resumed yesterday at the police court. W. J. Graham, of the Townsend Cannery Company, admitted that the reason he could not sell his canned peas to wholesalers was because the latter was tied up by other canners, James Irving, Toronto agent for Babbit's soap powder and condensed milk, admitted that if he sold to retailers he would be cut off by guild members.

THE WHITMAN BILL.

Steps Taken to Expedite Progress of the Measure.

London, June 19.—After a heated debate, lasting from early afternoon till 2:30 this morning, the House of Commons voted down numerous amendments offered by the opposition, adopted a resolution offered by Premier Campbell-Bannerman with a view to expediting the progress of the Education Bill. The resolution empowers the government to consider the bill by compartments and defines the clauses which may be passed each day. It allows seventeen days for the remaining stages of the bill.

JUMPED OVERBOARD.

Former Lieutenant in United States Army Commits Suicide.

Seattle, June 19.—Binns, formerly a lieutenant in the United States army, ~~stationed at~~ Fort Davis, committed suicide by jumping overboard from the steamer Ohio on the afternoon of June 14th, while the vessel was en route from Nome to Seattle. A life belt was thrown to Binns, and it struck in the water near his arm. He refused to make an effort to save himself and sank from sight before a small boat could reach him. His wife was with him on board the steamer.

KOREAN PLOT.

London, June 19.—The correspondent at Tokyo, of the Daily Telegraph, says that reports have been received from Seoul involving vice minister of the interior, privy councillor and Lieutenant-general in connection with the discovery of a plot under which the Emperor of Korea sanctioned a treaty inviting Russia to bring troops to expel the Japanese and occupy the province of Hando. It is understood the overtures were solely Korean and that Russia had nothing to do with the matter.

IN A QUANDARY.

We are told, in effect, that it is only on matters of political faith and political morals that the Colonial considers himself the inspired mouthpiece of the McBride government. It is not necessary to state, therefore, that the public need not look for any definite expressions of opinion from the organ upon the subjects of the policy of the present administration of the province with respect to subject of dissolution of the Legislature or with regard to the status of the Chief Commissioner in the government. As the organic defender of the faith the Colonist believes Hon. R. F. Green possesses in the fullest degree the confidence of his colleagues, but it may be inferred from inspired utterances that if the public appears to have lost confidence in the political or moral integrity of the Chief Commissioner, and there appears any probability of the government suffering thereby, the sufferer from the poisonous vapors of slanderous tongues may be thrown overboard. Being such an injured innocent, Providence will of course have a whale or great fish ready with its mouth open to do its duty by the derelict.

In the meantime, while the organ will not undertake to say specifically that there is no intention of asking the Lieut.-Governor for a dissolution, we have flat declarations from the Premier and his Chief Commissioner that the government has no intention of taking an appeal to the people. While the ministers are active in preparing the way for an election, these activities are merely the outward manifestations of their zeal in the public cause. They are going up and down the country ascertaining its needs—finding out what further is necessary to increase the prosperity that has followed their opposition to the construction of the railway enterprises they could not block—although they did their best in the interests of the great corporation they have served to the best of their ability. By their course they have vindicated the great Conservative principle that the welfare of the public can most effectively be promoted by increasing taxation and multiplying burdens. Let the saints take their rest in the firm conviction that there is no prospect of a general election. If there are sceptics who point to the fact that the Socialist allies of the government have received a private intimation of what is in contemplation and have taken the stump in company with the ministers, can they not be answered with the reply that it is only a "human probability" that the present Legislature will be permitted to complete its term; that there is a Providence which shapes our ends, and that the hand of Providence may point to the necessity of the government adopting a course of which there is no "human probability" at the present time.

At the same time it may be well to bear in mind that the Premier has the reputation of being a "masterly tactician," that his reputation for veracity amongst friends and foes is not above suspicion, that as a leader he might be described by the historian of the present day as the great Duke of Marlborough was drawn by Macaulay, that he has already executed one effective but despicable movement in fixing the date of a general election and then moving it a month ahead, thus taking the opposition completely by surprise, and that what he has done once he may do again, given the opportunity.

In brief, that the word of the Premier is of no more value than the expressed opinions of his chief Victoria organ, and the fact that he has announced that dissolution is not in contemplation is not a true indication of what is in his mind. Whether there shall be another session or not is all a matter of expediency. If the Premier discovers as a result of the campaign he is now conducting that an appeal to the constituencies would certainly result in the destruction of the government, he will again take his chances of bungling the legislature.

FAITH AND WORKS.

The New Westminster Daily News says: "The Victoria Times has a front page article which it makes prominent, and the point of which is that things are booming in the capital city. Very there is plenty for every place, and New Westminster does not want it all. Besides, she is too busy to be jealous." May we be permitted to felicitate the people of New Westminster on the fact that they now have a newspaper imbued with the larger and broader spirit which is characteristic of this growing Dominion? The day of small things and petty jealousies has passed away forever. A new feeling has entered into the hearts of Canadians—a conviction that the prosperity of one section of the country rests upon all other portions not only of the province but of the whole country. There is plenty of room in British Columbia for many more cities of many times the size of the present centre of population, and sufficient business to keep us all engaged. We are on the beginning of a large material in this province. Ere another decade has passed over our heads, with three new transcontinental railways seeking an outlet on our shores and preparing to handle the rapidly growing trade of the Northwest, the internal trade of British Columbia and the trade of the practically undeveloped Orient, we shall begin to realize what is in store for us and those that shall succeed to our imagination.

Situated as New Westminster is, she is bound to share largely in the expanding commerce of this twentieth century of promise. We congratulate her people on their prospects, believing that the faith they have displayed in their city through many years of depression is on the eve of justification.

PRIVILEGE!

The Czar of Russia, the Emperor of Germany and all the giddy companies of noble adventurers (male and female) will agree with the expressed conviction of the Mayor of Toronto that newspapers are the pests of this pernicious generation. Mayor Coatsworth said to his board of control and council a few days ago: "I have seen editorials in the evening papers that are simply idiotic. Any men of any brains or decency would not write them."

But the idiotic newspapers came right back at the Mayor, quite unabashed by the pungency of this most worshipful criticism. And so will the newspapers within the realm of His Majesty of Germany and of the most august ruler of Russia notwithstanding that these two latter ornaments of an effete "civilization" and out-of-date privilege have the power to suppress and to confiscate the instruments through which the public exercises the right of expressing its opinions. The Czar of Russia is about the only monarch left in these days of radical tendencies who appears to be imbued with the belief that danger of a revolutionary explosion can be averted by squatting his imperial person on the hessian safety valve. As long as he cherishes this belief there is a strong probability that some fatigued day he may find himself and his throne in the air. His Majesty, doubtless acting on the advice of a government chosen by himself and not by the voice of his subjects, is now engaged in an unequal contest with the press and with the Duma. He doubtless believes that he will win. His nobles share his opinions. But while the throne and the barnacles adhering to it may achieve what appears to be triumph over fundamental principles of freedom and justice and rights, at the cost of suffering almost beyond imagination and through the sacrifice of hundreds of thousands of lives, there can be no doubt as to the ultimate outcome. Principals which have long been accepted by the hereditary rulers of other countries must eventually prevail, and when the day of Russia's political salvation arrives, we fear the resulting situation will be far from tolerable for the Czar and his nobles.

What a pity it is that some prince or potentate or person of influence cannot obtain the ear of all these latter-day sages to impress them to renew their attention to the facts and teachings of history.

Another subject of frantic controversy has been brought boldly and prominently to the front. A Society for the Study of Inebriety has been formed in London; and it held a meeting recently to consider the question of alcohol craving. The discussion was opened by Dr. Harry Campbell, the president, who is a well-known hospital physician; and he argued, "If he did not startle his hearers by asserting that spirit-drinkers have by no means a monopoly of stimulants." There was evidence, said Dr. Campbell, that the blood normally contained stimulants, and many kinds of food, including meat, contained them in abundance. It was possible, he declared, for a man

"History repeats itself." Geographies in use in the public schools of Ontario have been denounced by three Eastern bishops because they give prominence to the theories of La Place, regarding the origin of the physical universe and of other speculative scientists on the subject of the origin of life on the earth. Which causes the Toronto Star to ask in a tone which is unmistakably sarcastic: "Having made short work of evolution and the nebular hypothesis, will Bishop Mills kindly tell the world what to do with the audacious theory of Copernicus, that the earth revolves around the sun?"

Toronto Star: Yes, ladies, this is June. As for the men, don't mind them a bit. Just you go ahead and marry them—in spite of their screams.

What Other People Think

ALL-RAIL TO THE MAINLAND.

To the Editor:—The only objection raised here to an active campaign in favor of all-rail connection between Vancouver Island and the Mainland is that the necessary bridging will be expensive. This is not a serious objection. It ought not to influence us at all. I remember reading a story of a student in fencing, who was being fitted quickly for a certain event. He said to his teacher: "I know how to thrust; now teach me how to parry." Replied the teacher: "You thrust. Let the other fellow parry." Let us apply this idea to the agitation referred to. Let us demand; let the other fellows raise the objections.

CHARLES H. LUGRIN,
BENEFIT CONCERT.

But the objection on the score of cost, while we ought not to raise it, is one that we need not fear to meet.

I read in an eastern paper this morning that the route for the National Transcontinental line from Quebec to Moncton will be chosen within a few weeks, and that work of construction will be begun at an early day. There is already a government line between Quebec, the Riviere du Loup & Temiscouata railway in connection with the Canadian Pacific and the Intercolonial give a second route between Quebec and Moncton, not to speak of a third rail route between the points afforded by the C. P. R. line across the State of Maine. Yet we are to have another, and it is going to cost a good deal of money. I raise no objection to this new route. It was considered necessary as a part of the National Transcontinental system, and I believe that it is necessary in point of fact to the completeness of that great undertaking. I know the situation in New Brunswick from a transportation standpoint very well indeed, as well in fact, that my opinion has been sought by New Brunswick representatives as to the necessity of such a line between the two provinces. The manager, and the assistance of the following well-known artists: Mrs. Ethel Burnell, Mrs. Wm. Gleeson, Mrs. H. G. McCoy, Miss Underhill, Mr. and Mrs. Gleeson, Hicks, Wm. Allan, G. H. Legg, Jessie L. Lovell, Mrs. H. C. Kelly, and W. H. Kilmatz—thus guaranteeing the success of the affair from an artistic standpoint. There are a few others that could not give a decided answer whose names will be published later.

The Hicks-Levick Piano Co. have kindly offered the use of a piano. It now only remains for the generous hearted people of Victoria to do their share by at least purchasing tickets. A number of friends will have these for sale in a day or two, and they will also be found in some of the principal stores. Further particulars will be given later.

The Municipal Court of Revision will commence its sessions in the city hall to-morrow at 10 a.m. As there are very few appeals from assessment it is probable the revision will be completed in one day.

F. M. Logan, provincial creamery inspector, left this morning for the lower Fraser valley, where he will examine conditions at the creameries at Chilliwack, Edenvale, Ladner and New Westminster.

This evening, at 8:30, Lieut.-Governor Dunsmuir will make his first public appearance since accession to office. He has consented to open the new building of the Young Women's Christian Association in Vancouver.

Last Sunday the death occurred in London of Lady Georgina Bromley, grandmother of the late Sir Robert Bromley, who died recently at St. Kitts. Lieut. Bromley, nephew of the latter, married Miss May Dunsmuir.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Northern Pacific is now operating five transcontinental trains daily between Puget Sound and the east, it is taxed to its capacity to handle the big passenger traffic now moving. New and improved equipment is being constantly added to the road's rolling stock to take care of the increasing travel, and the company is already figuring on adding another train, and is double tracking the line in many places.

The suburban train service on the Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway, between this city and Shawnigan Lake, and intermediate stations will come into effect commencing to-morrow evening, and will no doubt be welcomed by campers and others wishing to enjoy the warmer months at one of the many popular resorts along the line. The service provided is an exceptionally suitable one, and affords an opportunity to spend the evenings at camp and return in the morning in time for business. The same low rates as were in effect last year are offered, and it is expected that the tented city at Shawnigan Lake will assume even larger proportions than that of last season. Mention might also be made of the special "Sunday" rate, which comes into effect next Sunday to the different points as far up as Duncan's.

The garden party and sale of work, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, on the manse grounds, corner of Esquimalt road and Frederick street, Victoria West, on Wednesday afternoon and evening, June 27th, which is an annual function of many years standing, promises to more than maintain the high standard set by enterprisers of previous years. Strawberries, cake and tea will be dispensed, and in addition there will be other attractive features. Professor Longfield, with his orchestra, will provide a musical entertainment, instrumental and vocal, from 8 to 10 o'clock.

The Victoria Automobile Club will shortly hold a meeting to discuss an agitation for reduced rates, from the Sound. Members do not think it right that inhabitants of this island be forced to pay the same rates as those in the United States, of this port, was seized by the United States customs officer at Nels Bay a few days ago. The schooner was held for payment of a fine of $400 which had been imposed on her. The owner, being notified of the action by the captain of the Athens, at once forwarded an order for the money to the collector at Port Townsend and the vessel was released. In the meanwhile Mrs. Chingrane is waiting particulars of the arrest from the captain of the steamer, and upon the receipt of this will, he says, make an appeal to the United States authorities for a refund of the fine. The Athens has now gone on a fishing cruise up the coast of the Island and will not return to Victoria for some days.

SEALER SAILS.
Scallopier Allie L. Algar, Capt. Dan Macaulay, sailed this morning for the West Coast to get an Indian crew before proceeding to Behring Sea. She makes the eighth vessel of the Victoria Sealing Company to have started for Behring Sea and she may be the last to leave that sea.

The Behring Sea patrol maintained during the last few years by H. M. S. Shearwater, will again be performed by that ship. The cruiser will leave Esquimalt for Vancouver to be present during the Dominion celebration, and will shortly thereafter head north. The sealing season in Behring sea does not open until the first of August, but by that time the Shearwater, also a fleet of revenue cutters from the American side, will be on duty to see that the sealing regulations are not violated.

OPERATING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.
The steamer City of Puebla will sail for San Francisco Monday night. The Pacific Coast Steamship Company are striving hard to operate their fleet without the aid of the Seamen's Union, but have big difficulties to contend with. According to a Seattle paper, the crew of the excursion steamer Spokane left that vessel upon her arrival in Seattle. The steamer had been held in Vancouver over night, and so long as she remained there her crew were beyond the legal jurisdiction of the Sailors' Union, but once in Seattle their voyage was completed and there was no law to prevent them leaving. The Sailors' Union, however, had taken autocratic action in the pyramids, and had ordered that if the steamer remained at Vancouver they would instruct the crew to go ashore there. When Capt. Carroll was acquainted with this turn of affairs it was decided that the ship be taken to Seattle and that an endeavor would there be made to secure a nonunion crew for her.

RIOTJUN'S ARRIVAL.
Following close behind the R. M. S. Empress of China, which arrived yesterday morning, the steamer Riotjun Maru reached port yesterday afternoon after an uneventful passage. The steamer brought a number of passengers, principally Asiatic. Among those in the saloon was T. Mukai, Japanese naval constructor, who is bound for England on duty connected with the building of some Japanese ships.

SHIPPING NOTES.
The round-the-world steamer Tydus will arrive from the Sound on Friday to discharge and load cargo. There are over 40 tons of oil and guano and other freight at the outer wharf for the ship to take aboard here.

A wire received by the officials of the Hudson's Bay Company, of Vancouver, announces the successful navigation by the steamer Mount Royal of the canyon on the Skeena.

Steamer Princess Beatrice and Queen City, of the C. P. R. fleet, will sail tonight, the former for Skagway and the latter for the West Coast.

F. A. Richardson and William Stone, of Edmonton, are in the city looking over commercial conditions with the intention of starting in business here.

Only four games remain played in the Clarenza hotel bottle pool tournament, and will probably be run off this week. Tonight's game is between J. Henderson and C. Maitland, who play even.

Religious services are held periodically at the Sechart whaling station. Rev. Father Charles Moser, missionary at Clayquot, has been paying occasional visits to the station, and only last week conducted a most interesting service.

Thomas Catterall, the well known contractor, through the Times has contributed the sum of $5 for the relief of the widow and family of the late James Redford, of Alberni. Any further contributions for the same deserving cause will be received at this office and duly acknowledged.

Regent's Park, corner of Cadboro Bay road and St. Charles street, is the scene of an At Home this afternoon. The event will continue until late in the evening and will be replete with various forms of entertainment. The beautiful home of Doctor and Mrs. Ernest Hall has been thrown open for the event, and in the spacious reception rooms a concert programme will be provided to which selections will be contributed by Mrs. Gideon Hicks, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Cartwright, Mrs. Dixon, Miss Bishop and the Misses Spencer and Ladner. Tea, coffee and ice cream will be served during the day by members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Metropolitan Methodist church.

Two professors of Jin-Jitsu were among the passengers. They are Sutoe Kodama and Sadomo Yosimino, and have been engaged as instructors at Yale University.

Thomas Fraser, 2 Calcutta banker, was on his way to London on business. With him was L. Pythian, a Parsee engaged in the same profession. He was a representative of the cultivated more or less in the person of Arun Misra, who is going to Washington on a political mission. A Filipino lady in the saloon was Mrs. Ayooma, who is going to join her husband in the States.

The Tremont left about 2:30 for Seattle after discharging cargo here.

JAP SEALING.
A recent issue of the Japan Gazette says: "The seal catch of Kinkawazan this spring season has shown a comparatively poor result, and the autumn season's catch is not expected to exceed much better."

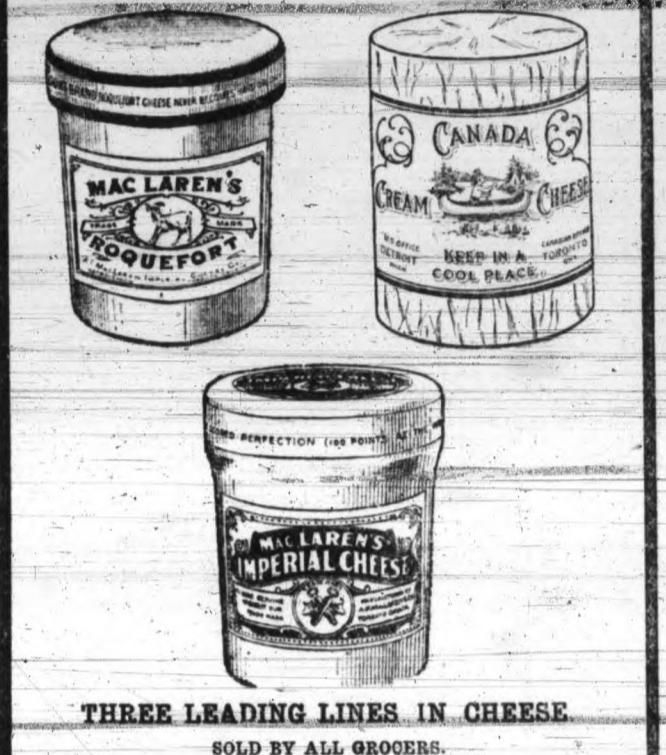

The dowers may thus be compelled to change to Behring and Victoria seas. It is reported that the Kurogai Maru, anchored in the same line, has returned to Alaska after obtaining only 100 skins, the Chitos Maru with a few more and other vessels with under 100 skins each."

FINED $400.

For some alleged violation of the American fishing regulations, of which the owner, D. K. Chingrane, of this city, has not yet been advised, the little steamer Athens, of this port, was seized by the United States customs officer at Nels Bay a few days ago. The schooner was held for payment of a fine of $400 which had been imposed on her. The owner, being notified of the action by the captain of the Athens, at once forwarded an

BALLARD IN LEAD.

The Ballard team is leading in the struggle for the Puget Sound championship. J. McManus, who played for Victoria for a couple of seasons during which time he made himself exceedingly popular with the local fans, is captaining the Victoria nine. Up to the present time the team has not lost a game and has attained a lead which will be hard for any of the opposing teams to overcome.

THE RING.

VICTORIANS TAKE PART.

One of the strongest programmes seen in Vancouver will take place at the English Bay Bathing & Athletic Club, Cordova street, on Thursday evening next. Ben Roffey, undefeated featherweight champion of Manitoba, will meet William Hill of Victoria. Sailor Keltie will meet Greighead of Australia. The third on the programme will be Otto Hill, of Victoria, vs. Bob Ritson, of Rossland. All three are main events and will go the three-minute rounds.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

ATHLETICS.

MEETING TO-DAY.

The physical committee of the Young Men's Christian Association are holding a meeting this afternoon at the room, Broad street. Business of some importance will come up for consideration. Among that on the tapis is the question of repairs to the gymnasium in preparation for the forthcoming winter season.

ATHLETES HONORED.

On Thursday evening at Harmony hall a dinner will be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. in honor of the members of the track team of that association. An energetic committee has made the preparations in hand and a pleasant time is assured.

LACROSSE.

Saturday afternoon the Victoria anti-New Westminster teams will try conclusions in the second game of the inter-city series. It will take place at Oak Bay and should be closely contested. The local twelve will be the strongest that can be selected from the available material, and what is more, every man will be in proper form for the struggle. The Royal City team, from all accounts, is fast, and may be depended upon to make a determined effort to carry away the victory. A splendid exhibition, therefore, is assured. The sport loving public of Victoria will turn out in large numbers to cheer the home team on to success.

An effort was made by Manager Yorke to postpone the forthcoming match owing to the counter attractions of this weekend. Two events of importance are advertised, namely, the regular club regatta of the James Bay Athletic Association and the annual sports at Macaulay Point, under the auspices of the Fifth Regiment C. A. The New Westminster club, however, would not agree to a delay. They argued—and the point seems to be well taken—that the lacrosse fixture was decided upon before either of the others, and, therefore, should have precedence. Under the circumstances the lacrosse game will have to take place, and, as already stated, it is expected that the general public will show their interest in the upholding of the Canadian national game here by turning out in large numbers.

THE TURF.

COMPLETING ARRANGEMENTS.

The Dominion Day race meet, which will be held on the 20th of June and the 2nd of July, promises to attract large crowds from neighboring points. It is stated that residents of Duncan, Ladysmith, Nanaimo and smaller towns along the E. & N. line have decided to come here in order to witness the contests. In addition, large contingents are expected from Vancouver, New Westminster and Puget Sound cities. Last evening J. E. Smart and H. H. Malone left for Seattle for the purpose of completing arrangements for the attendance of those horses which have been entered from that centre. Upon their return it will be possible for a definite announcement to be made as to the number of entries there are for each race.

In the meantime the track is being prepared and is rapidly assuming proper shape. It promises to be in perfect condition by the time it becomes necessary for the competing horses to take their places at the starting points. J. A. Fullerton will act as judge. His reputation for the exercise of impartial judgment while acting in that capacity is well known and, therefore, it is assured that the meet will be a success.

be required to start in races of different distances. Those he will occupy, thus being able to personally overlook the tactics adopted by the jockeys. Under such circumstances he will always succeed in doing any sharp work without being detected and subjected to a proper penalty.

The meet, on the whole, promises to be a splendid success. Needless to say, the B. C. Electric Railway Company is arranging to put on a special service for the purpose of handling the large crowds expected to attend.

THE OAR.

J. B. A. REGATTA.

The second of the series of J. B. A. club regattas will be held next Saturday afternoon over the harbor course. For some time past the crews have been training faithfully and are expected to be in splendid condition when called upon to take their places in their respective shells for the "competitions." The interest in these contests is just as general as has been the case in past years. The younger members of the J. B. A. A. almost all go in for rowing, and every few weeks new material is developing which, some day in the near future will be found fitting in the important inter-city race in which the James Bay club is constantly participating and just as frequently dominating superiority.

Things are expected to be more than usually interesting and the drawing, which will take place at a meeting to be held later on in the week, is being looked forward to by those concerned.

WHAT WOMEN SUFFER

AT ALL AGES, THEY NEED THE RICH RED BLOOD THAT DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS ACTUALLY MAKE.

A woman needs medicine more than a man. Her organism is more complex, her system more delicate. Her health is disturbed regularly in the course of nature. If anything happens to interfere with that natural course she goes through unspeakable suffering.

In fact the health of every function and the health of every movement in a woman's life depend upon the richness and regularity of her blood supply.

That is the simple scientific reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold—women of all ages from early girlhood up—they actually make the rich red blood all women need.

Mrs. Edwin Ward, Brookdale, Ont., says: "For years I suffered from those ailments that make the lives of so many of my sex miserable. I would take weak spells and become so nervous that I could not go about. My stomach was out of order, and I frequently vomited the food I took. Headaches and backaches afflicted me nearly all the time. Then I took a severe cold which settled on my lungs and I went to a hospital for treatment. I had the best of care, but the doctors gave me little hope of recovery. My face and limbs became swollen and my system racked with a harsh dry cough. As the doctors did not look hopefully upon my case I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had taken half a dozen boxes there was a great change for the better. I still continued to take the pills until I had used thirteen boxes, and I am now enjoying perfect health. I have no hesitation in saying that I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Ward by actually making the new blood her system needed. That is all Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do, but they do it well. They don't act on the bowels. They don't bother with other symptoms. They go straight to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why they cure all blood and nerve troubles like anemia, female irregularities, indigestion, rheumatism, headaches, and backaches, sciatica, nervous prostration and St. Vitus dance. Substitutes and imitations won't cure, purging medicines only make you worse, therefore you must get the genuine pills with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 35 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LIGHTNING'S FREAK.

Paints Peasant's Faces Red and Lips Black.

An extraordinary lightning freak is reported from Boulay, near Metz, during a thunderstorm.

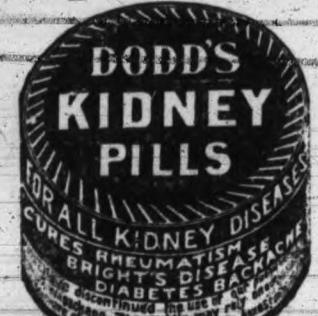

A man named Doyon, who was having a picnic, was bitten by lightning. His clothes being torn to rags, his wife and son who were near and their clothing torn, but escaped uninjured, except for the fact that by some unaccountable freak the lightning painted their faces a bright red and their lips black.

In the little village of Orchies twenty-two persons were struck by lightning. At Freis Marais the lightning threw a motor-car across the road, the two passengers escaping uninjured.

In the Vosges a number of people were killed and a village was set on fire.

SCHOONERS WRECKED.

St. Johns, Nfld., June 14.—The shipwrecked schooner Blossom and Reindeer were reported to-day, portion of their hulls being found along the coast. The vessels went to pieces during last week's hurricane, and it is feared their crews perished. In-coming vessels to-day brought to port many fishermen who were picked up from drifting boats during the storm.

NEMO

FARM COLONIES AND UNEMPLOYMENT

By John Burns, L.C.S.Y., M.P.

In a critical review of a speech I made on Saturday last, you say in your leader: "We are afraid, however, that on farm colonies he (Mr. Burns) speaks without knowledge. The facts contradict Mr. Burns."

First, as to what I really did say. This was only imperfectly reported. I affirmed that for the genuine unemployed—the independent self-reliant, self-respecting workers—farm colonies were an inadequate remedy, uneconomic, wasteful, and destined in the future, as in the present and past, to be a futile remedy for their workless condition.

The writer of the critical article really admits this, as he only claims for farm colonies "that they are not ideal remedies for unemployment, but their efficacy within limits is beyond question."

What the writer of the article kindly gives us the instances of success? Can he point to a single farm colony for the decent, productive efficient unemployed that coincided either with economic, social, financial, or industrial efficiency in the residents thereof?

There are, I admit, several rural work houses for able-bodied paupers. There are also fresco castles, wards and pastoral labor hospitals where the industrial misfits and social wreckage find refuge under coercive restriction and pauperizing conditions; that the efficient but workless workmen will very promptly not accept. But these institutions are but paper auxiliaries with the dependent subjective and penitent.

Social Wreckage.

They are admirably diagnosed and effectively summarised by the last Board of Trade report, which says of their foreign counterpart, of which the British are but "negative" imitations:

"Whatever be the object of these colonies, the great bulk of the material with which they deal consists not of efficient workmen out of work, but of tramps ex-prisoners, and others whose distress is caused by personal defects. They are not colonies of unemployed but are respectable for social wreckage."

Writing them recently, Mr. T. Mackay, no mediator, says:

"They are anything more or less satisfactory than the philanthropic sentiment, more or less attractive to persons of unindustrial instincts, but in no large sense of the term, are they able to restore on-to-coercive-industrial society in those who resort to them."

As abroad, in Germany, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, from fifty to ninety per cent. of the colonists are ex-victims, chronic tramps, who often go to colony after prison, or arrive in serious debility from alcoholic excess.

The worst way to help the unemployed, in my judgment, is to put them in small, celibate compounds on paper patches in rural districts. The better plan is to prevent them as free men being driven from the land in droves. An Essex laborer dispossessed from the soil, briefly employed at the East End, then sent to a farm colony, is worse for the transposition. He has been "institutionalized," and I never yet knew the average man survive that pauperizing ordeal.

I have secured some transient criticism at the hands of superficial people for my dislike of the Government Unemployment Bill, than which no more mischievous measure was ever passed. I do not believe in the labor colonies; this bill may be used to set up, and in that view I know I will not receive the support of a few politicians and others who are obsessed with pauper-ideas of industrial relief and soup-kitchen methods of social reform. Their methods, however, are being rapidly revealed as obstacles to real organic changes in land reform, labor amelioration, and industrial processes, for which farm colonies, with their dismal record of failure, even for the employable, are but poor substitutes.

Defects of the Farm Colony.

Can we wonder that these places abroad and at home are avoided by unemployed men of character, the people of whom I alone was speaking? Their reasons for so doing are commendable in every way. The isolation of a farm colony from industrial centres, its distance from the normal labor market, prevent the genuine unemployed workman, anxious to take up his work, from resuming his proper and profitable place in the ranks of labor when his opportunity for employment arrives.

The farm colony breaks up family life by withdrawing the father and bread-winner from his family, and even where this may sometimes lead to his physical benefit, it often results in greater moral detriment to himself and family.

It also interrupts the continuity of his skill and aptitude. That is deteriorated by his harder work under debasing conditions with celibate malingeringers who too often colosses to recuperate for their next bout of drinking or idleness.

I am not blaming these poor fellows. They are no worse than the better dressed of the same type in the West.

THE WORST OF A COLD.

Is not suddenly it comes. No time to hurry to the druggists, croup develops. The lungs are affected with pneumonia or tuberculosis and it's too late. Keep Catarrhose on hand—it kills colds instantly. Something magical about the way it cures Catarrh and Bronchitis. Catarrhose is the best remedy because it cures in nature's way: it heals, soothes and restores powerfully. Every one has a Catarrhose inhaler in your pocket, use it occasionally and you'll never catch cold that's worth remembering.

DELIQUENT ARRANGEMENTS.

It promises to be in perfect condition by the time it becomes necessary for the competing horses to take their places at the starting points. J. A. Fullerton will act as judge. His reputation for the exercise of impartial judgment while acting in that capacity is well known and, therefore, it is assured that the meet will be a success.

An extraordinary lightning freak is reported from Boulay, near Metz, during a thunderstorm.

A man named Doyon, who was having a picnic, was bitten by lightning.

His clothes being torn to rags, his wife and son who were near and their clothing torn, but escaped uninjured, except for the fact that by some unaccountable freak the lightning painted their faces a bright red and their lips black.

SCHOONERS WRECKED.

St. Johns, Nfld., June 14.—The shipwrecked schooner Blossom and Reindeer were reported to-day, portion of their hulls being found along the coast. The vessels went to pieces during last week's hurricane, and it is feared their crews perished. In-coming vessels to-day brought to port many fishermen who were picked up from drifting boats during the storm.

End. Society has to make reparation to them somehow, somewhere; but not as under present conditions—conditions of allowing them to increase their type and class by degrading others down to their level, and creating thereby a colony caste of social misfits. If anyone wishes to know about farms and labor colonies he has but to read the few pages in Mr. J. A. Hobson's book on the unemployed, and therein he will find ample corroboration that I speak with knowledge, and that the facts confirm and do not, as your writer alleges, "contradict Mr. Burns." But their inadequacy to cope with the problem of the genuine unemployed, except as a costly, tentative, and, I believe, futile experiment, is at once proved by the statement that for the variously estimated, 300,000 to a million unemployed labor colonies with a capacity for 2,000 single men alone exist.

These, in England, have not been established long enough to decide anything other than their cost and unreliability as an agency for coping with the genuine unemployed.

This, my view of farm and labor colonies, has been of long duration with me; in 1886, 1890, and ever since; I have held this view, mainly because I have seen several and collected upon this subject a large and unique bibliography, the study and outcome of which alone induced my speech at Saturday last.

London's outdoor man is the coster. He is the Ishmael of our gutters. A very jolly Ishmael, it is true, who is more than content to acknowledge the line of demarcation between himself and the true cockney. But nevertheless in a modified twentieth-century way, he is still the wild man whose hand is against every man's, and every man's against his. He is probably the remnant of the world's old race of wanderers—the last suggestion of the primitive man-left to the cities. It is to us town dwellers what the gipsy is to the countryside. His decent seems to spring from the time saving stock. And he is regarded, from a safe distance, with the same contempt by those who don't know him. His habits and his impulsive still savor strongly of the days when tribe warred against tribe, and every man's arm was for himself and his clan.

And although his pitch is below the curb, his carriage a barrow, and his beast of burden a Russian pony, a donkey, or himself, he is as free and as exclusive as any other busy son of the people who live under the skies. Ishmael he is, and Ishmael he chose to remain. And the chances are ten to one that whoever goes a-fishing for information among the barrows will come back with an empty creel or a fine show of fisherman's tales. For your coster knows both how to keep silent and how to use his tongue picturesquely in defense of his jealously guarded traditions and the internal economies of his existence. What with charitable institutions underwriting wood-choppers, laundries, and other industries in the presumed interests of the poor, London industries and their honest workers have a cause to complain.

But worse than this, even, is that the rates and money of the charitable rich should be extracted from their pockets for labor colony, farm colony and other grand schemes, that can only intermittently attract the already pauperized males of the dependent poor, providing nothing for women, and in so doing divert from better agencies what might be more usefully spent on reproductive work for those who have not lost their industrial place and their social pride.

The worst way to help the unemployed, in my judgment, is to put them in small, celibate compounds on paper patches in rural districts. The better plan is to prevent them as free men being driven from the land in droves. An Essex laborer dispossessed from the soil, briefly employed at the East End, then sent to a farm colony, is worse for the transposition. He has been "institutionalized," and I never yet knew the average man survive that pauperizing ordeal.

I have secured some transient criticism at the hands of superficial people for my dislike of the Government Unemployment Bill, than which no more mischievous measure was ever passed. I do not believe in the labor colonies; this bill may be used to set up, and in that view I know I will not receive the support of a few politicians and others who are obsessed with pauper-ideas of industrial relief and soup-kitchen methods of social reform. Their methods, however, are being rapidly revealed as obstacles to real organic changes in land reform, labor amelioration, and industrial processes, for which farm colonies, with their dismal record of failure, even for the employable, are but poor substitutes.

CHAPTER IX.

The Four Rascals.

We rode southward at an easy pace, that mademoiselle might not be made to suffer from fatigue. Aside from the desirability of our reaching safe territory, there was no room for great haste. M. de Varton had not yet been tried, and the attempt to deliver him from prison need not be made immediately. Time would be required in which I might form a satisfactory plan of action in this matter, and time would be necessary to employ all my men in it, and to bring them secretly from Maury by night marches, but I must not take the first step until the whole design should be complete in my mind.

I suggested to mademoiselle that we first go to her father's house, in Fleurie, where she could get such of her belongings as she wished to take with her. But she desired to take no more along than was already in the portmanteau that her boys, Hugo and Pierre, carried with them on their horses. She had come directly from Bourges with this baggage, having been visiting an unmarried aunt in that city when news of her father's arrest reached her.

When I questioned her as to her conduct on the reception of that news, her face clouded, and she wished to avoid the subject. Nevertheless, she gave me answers, and I finally learned that her purpose on leaving Bourges had been to seek the governor of the province immediately and petition for her father's release. It was, by accident, that she had met M. de la Chatre at the inn, where she had stopped that her horses might be baited. My persistent, though deferential, inquiries elicited from her, in a wavering voice, that she had not previously possessed the governor's acquaintance, that her inquiries had evoked only the governor's wrathful orders to depart, from the province; my pain of sharing her father's fate; and that La Chatre had refused to allow her son to see her father in his dungeon in the Chateau of Fleurie.

Her agitation as she disclosed these things to me became so great that I presently desisted from pursuing the subject, and sought to restore quietness to the face of one whose tenderness and youth made her misfortune ineffably touching.

I found that, with a woman's ingenuousness, she had a child's ingenuousness. I had no difficulty in leading her to talk about herself. Artlessly she communicated to me the silent facts of her life. Her father, the younger son of a noble family, had passed his days in study on his little portion of land near Fleurie. Like myself, she had, when very young, become motherless. As for her education, her unmarried aunt had taught her those accomplishments which a woman can best impart, while her father had instructed her concerning the ancients, the arts and the sciences. She had been to Paris but once, and knew nothing of the court.

Most of my conversation with mademoiselle was had while we traversed a deserted stretch of road, where I could, with safety, ride by her side and allow Blaise to take my place with the maid, Jeannette. I could infer how deeply the good fellow had been smitten with the petite damsel by the means which he took to impress her in return. Far from showing himself as the wounded, sighing lover, he swelled to large dimensions, assumed his most martial frown, and carried himself as a most formidable personage. He boasted sonorously of his achievements in battle.

"And the scar on your forehead?" I heard her say, as she inspected his visage with a coquettish smile glancing at what battle did you get that?"

His reply was uttered in a voice whose voracious ferociousness must have set the maid trembling.

"In the battle of the Rue Etienne," he said, "which was fought between myself and a half-born Papist, on St. Bartholomew's night, in 1572. From the next house roof, I had seen Coligny's body thrown, bleeding, from his own window into his courtyard; for I was one of those who were with him when his murderers came, and whom he ordered to flee. I ran from roof to roof, hoping to reach a house where a number of Huguenots were, that I might lead them back to avenge the admiral's murder. I dropped to the street and ran around a corner straight into the arms of one of the butchers employed by the Duke of Guise that night to 'decorate' the streets of Paris with the best blood in France. Seeing that I did not wear the white cross on my arm, he was good enough to give me this red mark in my forehead. But in those days I was quick at repartee, and I gave him a similar mark on a similar place. Then I was knocked down from behind, and when I awoke it was the next day. The dogs had thought me dead. As for the man who gave me that mark, he was a dog, and he has been out for thirteen years. I have prayed hard to the bountiful Father in heaven to bring us together again some day, and the good God in His infinite kindness will surely do so!"

Now and then mademoiselle turned in her saddle to look behind. It was when she did this for the ninth or tenth time that she gave a start, and her lips parted with a half-uttered ejaculation of alarm. I followed her look and saw five mounted figures far behind us on the road. It was just probable that those were De Berguin, Barbeauche and the latter's three-angled comrades. But in this sight I found no reason to be disturbed. If both abhorrence and fear. Again she grew silent, again the shadow and the look of confusion appeared on her face. I could make nothing of these signs. To attempt a solution by interrogating her was only to cause her pain, and rather than do that I preferred to remain mystified.

Once more mademoiselle cast an uneasy look at the riders in the distance.

"Ah!" said I with a smile, "you have no fear for yourself, yet you continue to look back with an expression that very nearly resembles that of fright."

"I do not fear for myself," she said quite artlessly. "It is for you that I fear. M. de Berguin will surely try to revenge himself for the humiliation he gave him."

A joyous thrill sent the blood to my cheeks. Without disguising my feelings, I turned and looked at her. Doubtless the gladness that shone in my eyes told her what was in my heart. I confess that her frank and gentle demonstration of solicitude was a confession to be received with infinite delight by the man to whom it was tendered. She dropped her eyes and a deep blush overspread her face. For some time no word passed between us, enough had been said. I knew that the look in my eyes had told more, a thousand times, than all the extravagant compliments with which I had half banteringly delighted her at the time.

"Then you never saw him before the meeting at the Inn today?" I asked, in surprise.

"Never. When he addressed me and introduced himself I was surprised that he should already know my name."

I quickly recalled that the government secretary, Montignac, at Bourges, during our talk with De Berguin outside the window, had pointed toward the inn. Was it then of M. de Vardon that he had been talking? Montignac, of course, having witnessed the interview between mademoiselle and the governor, had learned her name. It must have been he who had communicated it to De Berguin. Had the sub-secretary intrusted the unscrupulous valet with some commission relative to mademoiselle, as well as with the task of betraying me? It was in vain that I tried to find satisfactory answers to these questions.

I asked mademoiselle whether she had ever known Montignac before this day.

"Never," she answered, with a kind of shudder, which seemed to express some uneasiness before us, we hurried into a by-way, and stopped at an obscure inn at the end of a small village. This hostelry was a mere hut, consisting of a kitchen and one other apartment, and was kept by an old couple as stupid and avulgar as any of their class. The whole place, such as it was, was at our disposal. The one private room was given over to Mademoiselle and Jeannette, for the night. It being decided that I and Blaise should share the kitchen with the innkeeper and his wife, while the two boys should sleep in an outer shed with the horses.

Roused from sluggishness by the sight of a gold piece which Blaise displayed, the old couple succeeded in getting us a poor supper, which we had served to us at the end of an old wine bottle outside the inn, as the kitchen was intolerable.

For an instant her smooth and delicate fingers lay in mine. Then they were swiftly withdrawn, and she passed in, while I stood outside to muse in the gathering dusk upon the great change that had come over the world since my first meeting with her, six hours before. The very stars and sky seemed to smile upon me; the moonlight seemed to shine for me consciously with a greater softness; the very smell of the earth and grass and trees had grown sweeter to me. I thought how barren, though I had not known it, the world had been before this transformation, and how unendurable to me would be a return of that barrenness.

I rejoined the now somewhat boisterous party at the wine butt in time to catch Blaise making an attempt to kiss Jeannette, who was maintaining a fair pretence of resistance. She seemed rather displeased at my return, for as Blaise, unabashed, continued his efforts, she was compelled, in order to make her coyness seem real to me, to break from him and flee into the inn.

Blaise, in whom the spirit of his father was now manifestly gaining the ascendancy, consulted himself for the absence of Jeannette by drawing her hercologically and betaking to song.

The boys labored assiduously to keep him company. Finally the stalwart fellow, Hugo, succumbed to the effects of the wine, and staggered off to the shed. Pierre followed him a few minutes later, and Blaise was left alone with the remains of the wine. The landlord and his wife had retired to rest on their pallets on the kitchen floor some time before. Blaise sat on a log, sipping to himself and cursing imaginary enemies until all the wine was exhausted.

Then he led me into the kitchen, where he had him into telling of the things he had done in battle when controlled by the sanguinary spirit of his father. He had a manner of narrating these deeds of slaughter which took all the horror out of them, and made them rather comic than of any other description. He soon had mademoiselle smiling, the maid laughing, and the two boys looking on him with open-eyed admiration. Finding Jeannette with the landlord and his wife, as well as of Blaise, made slumber impossible to me. I therefore rose and went out of the inn. At a short distance away was a smooth, grassy knoll, now bathed in moonlight. I decided to make this my couch. I had proceeded only a few steps from the inn when the silence of the early night was disturbed by the sound of footsteps on the crisp, fallen leaves in the woods close at hand.

and women, and I fancy or dream of new sorts of trees. So on and on, till a wide open gate with shrubbery invites me to turn into a quiet garden with a pretty house and rest awhile.

Then I find I have not been dreaming. The road is really there, but it is the other end of it, 20 miles from the sea that bounds an Empire larger than Constantine or old King Cole knew of. The school children are shouting down the road, the scrapers are making up the grade near the new bridge, just as they did 1000 years ago; the trains come plowing round the top of the mountain into the valley; a great thunderstorm is going on up in the mountains six miles away, but below, the sheep and the cattle are as quiet as if they were grazing in some faraway fields in England at the other end of the road. The flies and the bees are just the same as Chaucer sang about. And if the thrushes and blackbirds, the larks and the nightingales would but settle here too, how should I know at which end of the road I am?

At night the same stars still glitter down on Galilee and Bethlehem town.

I hear the throb of London as soon as I did when I dwelt on the London end of the road, and lately I read in my morning paper an account of a terrible accident near the London end of the road, and the details were exactly as I should have read them in my newspaper at breakfast in England had I not moved my home from an old-fashioned dwelling to a very new one thousands of miles farther on the road.

Like the little boy I met, we all wander on, and sometimes lose our way; but I would cheer the dazed and perplexed man or woman on the great highway of life to just hark back and get on this road that I have passed along and come to this end, the way that leads from London to Lincoln or from London to Vancouver; it is straight on, and only the ferry to step on and off, and like the child they are home again, but

OVER A MILLION DOLLARS NET PROFITS A YEAR

THE RISE AND DEVELOPMENT OF WHAT IS NOW THE LARGEST PUBLISHING BUSINESS IN THE WORLD

THE SALES EXCEED TWENTY MILLION OF COPIES EVERY WEEK OF DAILY AND PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS

Reprint From "Profitable Advertising," Boston.

The history of journalism includes no more startling story of rapid progress than that afforded by the rise and development of the gigantic newspaper combination founded and controlled by Lord Northcliffe.

Eighteen years ago, on June 12, 1887, appeared the first number of the small penny weekly entitled Answers to Correspondents. It was managed and published in one small upstairs room at 26 Paternoster Square, London. Alfred Harmsworth was proprietor, manager, editor and publisher combined in one. His capital was the very modest sum of £1,750, and the circulation of this new venture for the first week was 15,000 copies.

Mammoth Total Circulation.

From this small beginning has grown with unexampled rapidity the business of the Amalgamated Press Limited, owning forty weekly and monthly papers and magazines with a circulation which in the week before writing amounted to 6,000,000 copies in spite of the fact that the present season is an exceptionally dull one in the English publishing world.

A Phenomenal Success.

In July, 1884, the firm published the first number of the Sunday Companion, a religious journal, made interesting by the general body of the people. Its success was immediate, and it is now the largest circulated religious journal in the world. The new department thus founded has subsequently brought the Sunday Circle, Sunday Stories, the Home Companion, Girls' Stories, Horner's Weekly, Horner's Pictures Library and took over an old publication, Vanity Fair.

Careful Preparations.

More than half a million pounds was sunk in buildings and plant before the first copy was issued, and this was altogether apart from the capital required for daily working expenses.

An experimental daily issue was regularly edited and printed for two months before the first copy was sold to the public on May 4, 1886, over £40,000 being thus spent in paper, labor, salaries, telegrams, payments for contributions, etc., for a paper which was never seen outside the office. The result of this was seen in the fact that at its first issue everything was in perfect working order. So instant was the success of the new venture that the average daily sale for the first month was 17,121 copies. This has steadily increased until at the present time the regular daily sale is only slightly under 1,000,000 copies, while on all special occasions 1,000,000 is considerably exceeded.

At the Head as a Medium.

The Daily Mail stands at the head of the newspapers of the world as an advertising medium, and is able to command from £350 (£1,750) to £400 (£2,000) per page, for advertisements—about twice the rate of any other London daily.

More Than a Century Old.

The Daily Mirror was founded by Lord Northcliffe, as a pennant ladies' daily in November, 1863, and after passing through a very stormy time, ultimately became firmly established as an illustrated half-penny daily, and has at the present moment a regular daily circulation of over 500,000 copies.

Other Harmsworth Newspapers.

The Glasgow Daily Record, The Newcastle Mercury, The Observer, Vanity Fair, The World, and The Manchester Courier are also included among the newspapers owned and controlled by the great journalistic genius who in eighteen years has built up from nothing the world's greatest publishing concern.

Overseas Edition.

In November, 1904, a weekly Overseas edition of The Daily Mail was introduced in the special interests of English people in the colonies and abroad. It finds its way not only into the British colonies but into every country of the world.

ed by the newspapers and other publications controlled by Lord Northcliffe. No group of publications shows so gigantic a revenue from advertisements, a fact which points unquestionably to commercial success.

Great has been the demand that arrangements should be made to supply orders in the States that will reach half a million copies every month.

These are but a selection of the publications of the Amalgamated Press, Limited.

Profitable Mediums.

As advertising mediums the Harmsworth publications stand in the first rank, and it is a recognized fact, both in England and the United States, that no large advertising enterprise which makes its appeal to the Anglo-Saxon race can succeed which does not avail itself of the very powerful help afforded by the newspapers.

First Harmsworth Daily.

It was in September, 1894, that Lord Northcliffe embarked upon the enterprise of daily newspaper publication by purchasing the Evening News, which is now London's chief halfpenny evening paper. It had previously passed through a very chequered career, at least £10,000 having been sunk in it by various proprietors. Under the new regime things quickly put on a different aspect, and under the capable management of Kennedy Jones, the circulation has steadily risen from next to nothing until it now stands at over 200,000 copies daily, while the profits have increased.

The Daily Mail.

Early in 1894 Lord Northcliffe commenced planning the Daily Mail, which is recognized throughout the world as England's smartest and most go-ahead paper. From the first, it was

DOUBLE MURDER AT HAZELTON

Details have been received of a double murder yesterday at Hazelton. The murderer is Simon Magun, an Indian of Kispyox.

The first body found about daylight yesterday was that of Alexander Mackintosh, a half breed, and was discovered about half a mile from Two-Mile Creek hotel. He was shot through the chest and had a fight the previous night with the murderer.

The second body was located about noon yesterday one and a half miles from Hazelton on the Kispyox trail. It was that of Max LeChair, also a half breed, who was shot through the back within an hour from the first murder. He was apparently coming to town from his camp.

Constable Kirby and five others set out for the murderer's ranch at once. They found that he had shot three of his own horses and killed another with a pick-axe, but did not find him.

They next went to Kispyox and Glenorchy, where they found Magun, who was being held on suspicion of knowing something about the murder.

The party are following the trail, but so far have discovered no signs of the murderer's whereabouts.

ANOTHER REMAND.

Hackmen Charged With Highway Robbery Allowed Out on Own Recognition.

There was a large crowd in the police court this morning when the four hackmen, Messrs. Corbett, Lawson, Marden and Byer, over whom hangs the charge of highway robbery, were called. Frank Higgins and Wm. Moresby were present as counsel on the defense, and Chief Langley conducted the prosecution. The circumstances of this case have been so often explained in these columns that readers of the Times must be thoroughly conversant with them, and it is unnecessary to go into details. Briefly the quartette mentioned are accused of the theft of $35 from J. Hewitt in a drunken brawl at a Chatham street house of ill-fame. The hearing was remanded from last week at the request of Chief Langley because of the inexplicable disappearance of the informant and the chief witness, Hewitt.

The circumstances of this case have been so often explained in these columns that readers of the Times must be thoroughly conversant with them, and it is unnecessary to go into details. Briefly the quartette mentioned are accused of the theft of $35 from J. Hewitt in a drunken brawl at a Chatham street house of ill-fame. The hearing was remanded from last week at the request of Chief Langley because of the inexplicable disappearance of the informant and the chief witness, Hewitt.

When Magistrate Hall took his place this morning it was expected that Hewitt would have been located by the police and put in the box to give evidence. Directly after the court was called to order, however, Chief Langley announced that the missing man had so far succeeded in escaping the clutches of the stalwart guardians of the law. He asked for another remand, and also asked permission to lay an additional charge against the accused men—that of being drunk and disorderly.

Messrs. Higgins and Moresby both protested against holding the four hackmen in prison under the circumstances. They asked that the bonds be altered so as to allow the prisoners out upon their own recognizance.

Chief Langley did not make any strong objection to this, and accordingly the application was granted. The case was remanded until Friday, the 27th inst.

Two drunks were convicted and dealt with in the usual way.

To-morrow morning the neighbors' quarrel, in which are concerned Mrs. Morgan and W. Ottaway will be concluded.

A BIG EXCURSION.

Eight Hundred Woodmen of the World Arrived This Afternoon on Indianapolis.

One of the largest excursions that has visited Victoria in recent years arrived this afternoon at 1 o'clock on the steamer Indianapolis. The ship carried a full complement 600 passengers, all Everett, from which city the excursion came, many who were anxious to make the trip had to be left behind because of the passenger limit having been filled.

The excursion was organized by the Woodmen of the World of Everett, and is accompanied by the Everett City band, which played on the voyage to Victoria, and helped to enliven the trip. The Indianapolis left Everett at 8.30 o'clock, and will remain over in Victoria until seven this evening.

The visiting Woodmen sprung a complete surprise on the Woodmen of the World in this city. The latter had no official intimation of their American brethren coming.

BRANDON'S GROWTH.

(Associated Press.)

Winnipeg, June 26.—The assessment of the city of Brandon has just been completed by Assessor Hugh R. Cameron. It shows an increase of $2,321,320 in assessment over 1905, although the buildings this year were assessed to only 50 per cent of their value, while in 1905 the assessment ran for 1906 for land and buildings is $6,445,950, while for 1905 it was $4,124,820. The business tax assessment by the new roll is $229,340, an increase over the previous of $81,436. The population is placed at 9,898, being an increase of 1,369 over last year.

APPEAL IN FULL COURT.

Case of Fagan vs. Times Was Argued This Morning.

Before the Full court to-day the appeal in Fagan vs. Times was argued before Chief Justice Hunter, Mr. Justice Irving and Mr. Justice Morrison. The appeal is from a judgment of Mr. Justice Duff, who dismissed an application made for an injunction by Dr. Fagan to restrain the Times from publishing an advertisement containing a statement of Dr. Fagan's made at a coroner's inquest relative to Dr. Steedman's soothsaying powers.

A. E. McPhillips, K. C., representing Dr. Fagan, did not urge that the statement as it appeared was an unfair one. It was not represented as different from what the doctor had made.

He contended, however, that Dr. Fagan had a right in his name which this statement violated. He thought that a professional man had the right in such a case to prevent the continued publication of such an advertisement.

The Chief Justice could not well see where the distinction lay between a news item published in a paper and an advertisement.

Mr. McPhillips intimated that the statement of Dr. Fagan should be imprisoned as he gave it under compulsion as a witness.

To this G. H. Barnard, representing the manufacturers of Steedman's spirit powder, opposed the contention. Dr. Fagan made the analysis for the sum of $100.

Mr. Barnard contended that the advertisement which appeared was for the purpose of unduly injury, which had been done to the manufacturer of Steedman's powder by the previous newspaper article relative to a supposed case of poisoning, and also by use being made of this report to advertise another powder in trade papers.

He contended that Dr. Fagan had no property in his name and could not prevent the use of it which was made. The case is in progress this afternoon.

TO THE TIMES.

Ottawa, June 20.—The common private bill committee reported to-day the Ellen Mary Mackintosh divorce bill which was referred back yesterday, by a majority of 7 to 2.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

It is believed that cocktails containing wood alcohol were responsible for two deaths which occurred in Brooklyn on Tuesday. A pitcher of the concoction was drunk Sunday evening by a party among whom were Mrs. Jessie S. Bowquitt, a school teacher, 23 years old, and Joseph Hirsch, 37. Both Hirsch and Mrs. Bowquitt died on Tuesday. Mrs. Eva Fullwood, also a member of the party, is seriously ill. The others who drank of the cocktails suffered severely as the result.

It is reported at Kingston that Chief of Police White of Perth has gone to Peterboro county to apprehend an Indian man, who, according to a woman's story, is alleged to have murdered two boys at Sharbot Lake in April, 1906. At the time it was thought the boys were drowned. Bones were found at the place indicated.

THE MOTIVE OF THESE PEOPLE," HE SAID. HIS EYES TWINKLING, "IS LIKE THE MOTIVE OF A SCOT WHO WAS FOUND WEEEPING ONE DAY BY HIS COMFORTABLE HEARTH."

"EH, SAUNDERS MAN," SAID A NEIGHBOR PEPPING IN AT THE OPEN DOOR ATTRACTED BY THE SOUNDS OF WOE. "WHAT'S ALLIN' YE?"

"OH, DEAR, OH DEAR," SOOTHED SAUNDERS. "DONALD 'MACKINTOSH'S WIFE IS DEAD."

"AWEET," SAID THE NEIGHBOUR, "WHAT'S THAT? SHE'S NO RELATION OF YOURS, YE KEN?"

"I KNOW SHE'S NOT, BUT IT JUST SEEMS AS EVERYBODY'S GETTIN' A CHANGE BUT ME."

THE SKIN OF THE WHALE IS FROM TWO INCHES TO TWO FEET THICK, AND THE SKIN OF A LARGE SPECIMEN WEIGHS THIRTY-TONS.

IT IS REPORTED AT KINGSTON THAT CHIEF OF POLICE WHITE OF PERTH HAS GONE TO PETERBORO COUNTY TO APPREHEND AN INDIAN MAN, WHO, ACCORDING TO A WOMAN'S STORY, IS ALLEGED TO HAVE MURDERED TWO BOYS AT SHARBOT LAKE IN APRIL, 1906. AT THE TIME IT WAS THOUGHT THE BOYS WERE DROWNED. BONES WERE FOUND AT THE PLACE INDICATED.
